

Testimonial #1

Hello my name is
Zipporah Mureithi

I am a student at the Department of Natural Resources, Faculty of Environment and Resources Development at Egerton University in Kenya. I am currently pursuing MSc. Natural Resources Management with a focus on gender and water resource management.

Title of your research	Role of women in transboundary water resource conflict resolution in the Nile Basin: A comparative study between Rwanda and Kenya.
Place of research	Kamonyi District, Rwanda and Kisumu County in Kenya
Name hosting university, and hosting supervisor	University of Rwanda, Dr. Ernest Uwayezu
Name home university, and home supervisor	Egerton University, Prof. Elias Maranga

My Photo Album

My academic research visit has been transformative and fulfilling. I have been able to gain in-depth understanding of the inter-sectionality between gender and water governance. My research involved having a one on one interaction with local communities and I was able to immerse myself in their way of life. It was a beautiful and amazing experience.

